

Terminal Time Clock

Turn any computer or tablet into a terminal style time clock to create a centralized location for clocking

Problem:

When switching from an old time clock on the wall, organizations still need a way to provide employees with a centralized location to clock in or out for their shift

Solution:

honeybeeBase has a public link specific to your company that can be bookmarked on any tablet or computer to create a terminal style time clock.

Key Features

- Users can create and edit their ongoing availability
- Users can put in specific date requests outside of their ongoing availability
- Both specific date requests and ongoing availability show up in the schedule editor so that the scheduler can differentiate between them and schedule accordingly
